Manager's Comment

Equity markets stabilised in November, after a turbulent October. The 90-day truce period agreed between the US and China has postponed the planned increase in tariffs due to have gone into effect on 1st January, and provides grounds for optimism that further progress can be made. While it is expected that ongoing US-China tensions and Brexit will continue to be factors weighting on markets in the near-term, many US economic indicators continue to be positive.

The MFM Techinvest Technology Fund is showing a gain of 499.54% since the start of 2009, putting it in second place in the Technology & Telecoms IA classification table over that period. (source: Bloomberg, Morningstar; 30th November 2018).

Recent Activity

During the month of November, the Fund acquired a position in Kape Technologies. The FTSE-AIM quoted Company is an online cyber-security vendor, primarily focused on the consumer market, and operates a monthly subscription model. It has made solid progress in refining its product portfolio over the last couple of years, and added to this by acquiring Integro, a supplier of malware protection software for Mac, for $16 million. Kape has $64 million in cash, and is actively targeting other acquisitions. Together with the online distribution model, the Company has the potential to deliver strong growth. Kape reported adjusted PBT of $6.8 million in FY2017 and broker forecasts for FY2018 are for this to grow to $8.8 million, and to $12.3 million in FY2019.

Risk Warnings

The price of shares in the Fund can go down as well as up and therefore investors may not get back all they have invested. The Fund is subject to an initial charge and consequently charges are not made uniformly throughout the period of investment. Changes in exchange rates between currencies may cause the value of investments to diminish or increase. The Fund invests in smaller companies and companies listed on AIM, which carry a higher degree of risk than larger companies. The shares of smaller companies may be less liquid and their performance more volatile over shorter time periods. The Fund focuses on a specific sector which can also lead to greater volatility.
